A "Last Word" to the Fishermen and Miners of this Region----Think It Over Well Before You Vote

Next Tuesday, August 9th, the voters of the District of Alaska will go to the polls in their respective communities and will there exercise their rights as American citizens, in electing a delegate to represent them in the Halls of Congress. It is a duty which calls for a great deal of forethought on the part of the voters, for upon the decision of the voters depends the future of Alaska, for two years at least and probably for more. There are three aspirants for the office, Wm. O'Connor, the Labor Party candidate; Edward S. Orr, the Republican nominee; and lastly James Wickersham—each representing different principals and theories. It is of the latter man, that this paper wishes to speak more particularly.

He is before the voters asking for re-election, and making the request on strength of his actions while representative—on measures enacted and results obtained.

Almost the whole of the voters of this part of District—Southeastern Alaska—come under two classes, fishermen and miners, and this paper, now, at this time, since Wickersham is appealing to them to send him back to Congress, desires to ask the members of these two classes, the fishermen and miners of Southeastern Alaska, to look up Wickersham's record as far as they are concerned, in other words to find out what Delegate Wickersham has done for them.

For the benefit of the fishermen, actual residents of Alaska, we find that he has introduced a bill which provides that they shall be taxed on every fishing boat they happen to possess in excess of one, that their launches shall be assessed at the rate of fifty cents per ton gross; that they shall be compelled to pay $1.00 per hundred fathoms of gill net, seine, or other net they may own or use, so much for the salmon fishermen. The halibut fishermen under this beneficent bill of Wickersham's, will pay the same tax on their boats or launches, and besides will be mulched at the rate of ten cents per hundred pounds or half a dollar a box on halibut they catch and ship down to Seattle or other place outside of Alaska. In other words, you are taxed for the privilege of taking your lives in your hands and wresting forth a living from the treacherous deep. "Yes," some of you say, "but isn't this money so collected to be spent for the benefit of the fisherman, in the way of research or propagation?" Here is the way in which the act stipulates that the cash to be squeezed out of the fishermen is to be disposed of, quoted word for word:

"Provided, That all sums of money collected by the clerks of the district courts of Alaska under this act shall, on the first day of January, April, July and October immediately following the collection, be transmitted to the Treasury Department of the United States, there to remain as a separate and distinct fund, to be known as the "Alaska fund—Fisheries," and to be wholly devoted to the purposes hereinafter in this section stated in the Territory of Alaska. One-fifth of said fund shall be, and hereby is appropriated to the establishment and maintenance of salmon fish hatcheries in the Territory of Alaska and a cod hatchery on Shumagin island, and shall be expended by the Commissioner of the Bureau of Fisheries under the direction of the Secretary of Commerce and Labor; one-fifth of said fund shall be transmitted to the clerks of the district courts in the four judicial districts in Alaska, in equal parts, and said equal parts shall be expended under the orders of the respective judges of said courts in defraying the necessary incidental expenses of maintaining said courts; two-fifths of said fund shall be expended by the governor of the territory of Alaska within his discretion and under his direction, in building schoolhouses and maintaining public schools outside of the incorporated towns in said Territory; and one-fifth of said fund shall be expended by the governor of the territory of Alaska within his discretion and under his direction, in the establishment and maintenance of a home for aged, disabled, and pioneer prospectors, and in aid and support of sick and indigent persons in the Territory."

There you have it Mr. Halibut Fisherman, of the fifty cents you would be forced to pay as taxes on each box of halibut shipped, as provided by this bill introduced by your kind, considerate friend, James Wickersham, twenty cents would be expended for schools; ten cents for the maintenance of the courts; ten cents for the propagation of codfish at Shumagin, wherever that may be, and for the culture of salmon; and lastly, and this is a feature in which all fishermen are bound to be interested, the final dime is to be blown in for the erection and maintenance of an old man's home—for the fishermen who have striven and suffered to build up the fund to create this home you will conclude. NO, it is for nothing of the kind—a fisherman, worn out and decrepit, couldn't get inside the doors—it is for aged, disabled and pioneer prospectors.

The fishermen are easy, Wickersham figures that they will vote for him anyway, but with the miners it is different, they might lend their strength to Orr or O'Connor, so he will cinch the fishermen for the benefit of the miner and prospector of the interior, and thus gather in the latter's vote.

These are facts, cold and dispassionate, Mr. Fisherman, if you are of the opinion—that there is any likelihood of your getting a square deal from a man who has demonstrated his desire to sacrifice you on a political altar as shown in this bill he introduced and tried to have passed, why support him, so that you may have the opportunity of being the only class of people in the district who are taxed for the privilege of being allowed to make a living for yourselves. If you feel, as you should and must if you are true to yourselves, that you cannot support this man, Edward S. Orr stands pledged to sound, sane legislation, without one class or one region to serve in preference to another.

The miner too, the hard rock man, has a grievance against Wickersham. Among the legislation enacted during the last session of Congress was a bill amending the mining laws as applied to patenting mining claims. Under the old law it was possible to secure a patent after $500 worth of labor had been done on a claim. Under the new one it is impossible to get action on a patent in less than about fifteen months after the application has been made, and during the interval, assessment work must be kept up, at a great inconvenience and expense to the owners, and besides the time for protesting the granting of the patent is thus extended.

Wickersham did not introduce this bill, but there is no record that he attempted in any way to stop its enactment while it was in the hands of the different committees in the senate or the house of representatives, and hence must be considered as favoring the measure.

Then again, the bill enabling the miner in the interior to put a lien upon the dump of a placer claim for his wages, and for which Mr. Wickersham is taking unto himself much credit, turns out to be considerable of a frost. Under the old law a miner could attach either mine or dump, now the dump, only, and if the operator has taken the gold out of the dump as the dirt constituting it was mined, the miner has no recourse whatever, and this is the legislation he is so proud of. Mr. Wickersham is an able lawyer versed in legal lore, so the question properly arises, What was his idea in assisting in the enactment of such laws? It is for him to furnish the answer, but it looks to the uninitiated as though there might be the desire on his part to furnish legal complications for the future when the people of the District shall have awakened and thrown him out of his office, neck and crop.

There is no denying the fact that Wickersham has sacrificed his constituents at every turn. The measures he has introduced have been a detriment, and those he should have opposed but did not, will be a curse, and still in spite of these facts, undeniable as they are, he is before the voters asking for their votes. This paper does not believe, however, that they return him to Washington, but that they will pile up a good majority for Edward S. Orr, the Republican nominee.

Finds Grave In Ocean

When Captain Hamilton of the Truth came into port last Sunday he reported that John Baronovitch had been lost overboard and was probably drowned.

The launch had left Karta Bay Saturday evening bound for Loring. Baronovitch had but out the side lights and afterwards went below and put on his overcoat. He went on deck again and was not missed until the boat pulled into Loring. Here the captain went to waken him and found his bunk empty. A search of the boat was made but the missing man could not be found. Sometime during the night he had evidently slipped overboard and sunk.

Baronovitch was thirty-eight years old and was born at Kassan. He was married but had no children. His brother in the hope of finding some trace of him is offering a hundred dollars reward for his discovery.—Ketchikan Miner.

The deceased was the brother of Mrs. T. J. Case of this place.

Prominent Officials Here

The Albatross with Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagle and Attorney General Wickersham on board made Wrangell a visit Sunday. While here the visitors took in the local points of interests and met the people who were desirous of conferring with them. From here the boat proceeded to points north.

Judge Goddell, of Valdez, certainly captured his audience at the political rally at Redmen's Hall last Thursday evening, making a telling speech. Judge Winn was a close second in a good speech full of irrefutable facts.

Monday morning of this week, Drs. Dawes and Shurick performed an operation on little Adolph Engstrom's leg to remove the results of a partial fracture. The operation was successful and the little fellow will be around again as well as ever in a few days.

Twenty-six native children have died of measles at Tatitlek within the last few days, says the Valdez Prospector. New Milk Man In Town

During the present week, to be specific, on the first of the month, F. E. Smith sold out his dairy business here in town to N. L. Moen, who will conduct it in the future. Mr. Moen is an old hand at the business and will undoubtedly prove a satisfactory milkman to the people of Wrangell. He says that he wishes The Sentinel to announce to its readers that he intends to handle good, rich milk and thick sweet cream for which the Wrangell Dairy is famous from Ketetikan to Skagway. He has already sent in an order for a cream separator which he will use in extracting the cream, so that in the future consumers will be able to get cream while it is still warm thus insuring its keeping qualities. Frank Smith and his estimable wife will remain here for a short time, and will leave for the south where they will make their home in the future.

Princess May Wrecked

Information reached town today that the C. P. S. S. Co's steamer Princess May was wrecked at Sentinel Island, during a fog at one o'clock this morning, and is probably a total wreck.

Doings At Petersburg

Word comes from Petersburg that the town council of that thriving little town have completed arrangements with Charles Norberg and Chris Tweten; who have been running the fish scow at Scow Bay in the Narrows, whereby the latter gentlemen will move their scow and ship their fish hereafter from Petersburg. The council are of the opinion that it will mean much to the business interests of Petersburg to have the shipping done from their town in preference to the Narrows and have the fishermen do their buying and secure their supplies there. The Council will drive dolphins for securing the scows, and the intention later is to erect and maintain a public wharf.

Wm. O'Conner the candidate for delegate on the labor ticket was a Petersburg visitor recently and made a host of friends here. He is a good talker and as a mixer he is hard to beat. Especially among the fishermen will he have a large following as the vote to be cast as the vote to be cast next Tuesday will show.

If you want to be taxed for some other fellows benefit, vote for Wickersham. Orr stands for a square deal for all.
